Rahab and the Spies

Rahab lived in Jericho which is the promised land for the Israelites. Joshua sent two spies into Jericho and they went to Rahab's house so they had a place to stay for the night.

The King of Jericho heard there were some spies in the land so he ordered his soldiers to get them from Rahab's house. Rahab hid the spies and told the soldiers that she did not know where they were and they should go and find them.

The spies hid on Rahab's roof and she said to them that she will help them escape if they promise to keep her and her family safe when they take the city. They agreed and told Rahab to tie some red cord to her window to remind them not to attack her house. The two men escaped through the window on a long rope and went to the hills to hide from the soldiers.
